THE DAY JEWISH VICTIMHOOD JUSTLY DIED

Introduction:

This paper was rewritten four times after the Hamas attack of October 7, 2023. The reasons for rewrites are crystal clear. I don't wish to dwell on the rewrites – I do wish to remind the reader that even among the worst of humanoids, there exists a ranking of the depraved.

I remember that ISIS burned a caged pilot. (On January 3, 2015, a Jordanian pilot was captured by ISIS and burnt to death in his cage after his F-16 aircraft crashed over Syria). Out of caution, I did not mention several other, even worse, ISIS' transgressions in the past. I rewrote this paper when I realized how hard the Obama team worked to get a huge (80 countries) coalition and yet had a very low number of anti-ISIS attack sorties (2-4 attack by a single aircraft on a single day).

It is easy to assume that the partners in that coalition were bribed to join not to fight. It became even worse for me to realize the idiotic justification of reluctance by this glorious coalition to behead ISIS. The excuse was that attacking ISIS big oil traffic trucks is bad for the environment. Final rewrite occurred when it became clear that Hamas – a replica of ISIS (yet an enemy), had beheaded a Jewish baby intentionally, had numerous rapes (with ugly associated unspeakable crimes). That got me to the current version.

I will never be calm again. On the other hand, as much as I would like to torture some of the human refuse, I will not do it. There are rational ways of treating garbage. Put your seatbelts on. It's rough out there.

Not long ago, the same kind of humanoid refuse directed artillery at a complex of incredible Budha statutes. The terrorists' bastards have no limits aiming at the civilized, at civilization itself, at anything and anyone in imperfect agreement with these demented totalitarian views. PGC intends to attack viciously the ones who truly don't belong on this earth.

THE DAY JEWISH VICTIMHOOD JUSTLY DIED

Before we delve into our attack agenda, we'd like you to know a little about me.

- I am a Holocaust survivor (no camps, just hiding)
- I am 85 years old. A former Israeli Paratroop Officer, terrorist chaser, no big hero, just a competent warrior. Never hated Arabs, Moslem or anyone else EXCEPT THE NAZIS.
- I devoted 20 years to study the Holocaust and, here I will brag, I have written 12 books, 200 booklets (single issue papers) and published 10 books, all at once in June / July 2023
- I am educated. I was an Engineering Professor, an inventor, a CEO of high-tech companies. I am a good speaker, not a very good writer. That is why I'm careful with my expressions and curses (I do well in Russian and Arabic)

So, now that I've introduced myself, allow me to tell you WHAT I BELIEVE YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT OCTOBER 7, 2023.

There are three levels of knowing which provide

1. Sufficient familiarity with a wide scope of facts
2. Extract from that a set of facts and conclusions that you should remember
3. And from those, you need to comment knowing what you must remember.

A reason of importance for Jews surviving mega crimes over 2000 years is that they never forgot to remember Jerusalem.

THE DAY JEWISH VICTIMHOOD JUSTLY DIED

Introduction – Author’s Notes

We are out to show that all reporting, bar none, is heavily mired in “Terminological Inexactitude” (key methods of poison ivy colleges).

The October 7, 2023 event can be factually reported as:

1. An obviously surprise event

- The morning military operation including air, ground and sea penetrated Israeli territory bordering Gaza. Within the first day of operation, 1400 dead Israeli and foreign visitors to the Israeli territory were killed, nearly 300 hostages were evacuated by the attacking forces and placed in Gaza underground tunnels.
- There was no particular trigger for the Hamas operation. It was a larger version for numerous prior (yet much smaller) and numerous rocket attacks, with a certainty of knowledge by Hamas that Israel will retaliate with aircraft bombardment against the positions from which missiles and rockets were fired.

2. Hamas, and multiple other terrorists, have placed their launchers everywhere that is forbidden by the multiple warfare laws and practices (e.g., school, hospitals, mosques).

Israel is known, now for many years, to have made it a policy to warn anybody about forbidden launching sites. Leaflets, fax and emails have been a constant means of avoiding or limiting casualties – especially of civilians.

3. In any situation that a “Fog of War” could possibly have decisive effects, it is important to realize by attackers and attackees that information, accurate and important, must be available to avoid, or at least minimize, harming the innocent.

4. There now exists incredibly accurate data that show that Hamas engages in massive / total lying regarding any data they release to the press and international organizations – who shamelessly echo the news vomited to them openly and clearly.

The proof of the above assertion comes from a source that you will find astonishing. Here we come:

- On May 10, 2016, I generated a “Critical Review” of NY Times Magazine (By David Samuels) article titled “Shaping Foreign Policy in the Obama Age” (5/8/16). All quotes are authentic. I provide just a few quotes here but submit the entire evidence in the Appendix to this opinion piece.

What follows is just a hint. The full text is a reporting jewel, a rarity these days. I am in awe!

SELECTED TEXT FROM CRITICAL REVIEW OF A NEW YORK TIMES ARTICLE RE: BEN RHODES.

- Ben Rhodes believes that the opponents of his views are morons
 - The 9/11 Commission [Hamilton & Baker]
 - Based on Hamilton and Baker’s Second in Command, – Edward Djerejian: “Rhodes Opinions were helpful in shaping the Group’s Conclusions – a scathing indictment of the policy makers responsible for invading Iraq ... THE IRAQ WAR WAS PROOF, IN BLACK AND WHITE, NOT OF THE COMPLEXITY OF INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS OR OF THE MANY PITFALLS / PERILS ATTENDANT TO POLITICAL DECISION-MAKING BUT OF THE FACT THAT THE DECISION MAKERS WERE MORONS.”
 - Development of Contempt
 - “He had developed a healthy contempt for the American foreign policy establishment, INCLUDING EDITORS AND REPORTERS OF THE NEW YORK TIMES, THE WASHINGTON POST, THE NEW YORKER AND ELSEWHERE.”

- “He referred to the American Foreign Policy Establishment as the BLOB. According to Rhodes, the BLOB INCLUDES HILLARY CLINTON, ROBERT GATES.
 - Based on Samantha Power [U.S. Ambassador to the U.N.]: “He was Defiant” ... “He hates the idea of being phony, and he is impetuous and he has strong views.”
- The source of the contempt is simple – it stems from the huge change in the NEWS BUSINESS
- 40% of Newspaper Industry Professionals have lost their jobs in the past decade – in part because readers can absorb all the news they want from social media platforms like Facebook
WHICH ARE VALUED IN THE TENS AND HUNDREDS OF BILLIONS OF DOLLARS AND PAY NOTHING FOR THE “CONTENT” THEY PROVIDE TO THEIR READERS.”
 - RHODES SINGLED OUT A KEY EXAMPLE TO ME ONE DAY, LACED WITH THE BRUTAL CONTEMPT THAT IS THE HALLMARK OF HIS PRIVATE UTTERANCES’:
“All these newspapers used to have Foreign Bureaus, now they don’t. They call us to explain to them what’s happening in Moscow and Cairo. MOST OUTLETS ARE REPORTING ON WORLD EVENTS FROM WASHINGTON. THE AVERAGE REPORTER WE TALK TO IS 27 YEARS OLD, AND THEIR REPORTING EXPERIENCE CONSISTS OF BEING AROUND POLITICAL CAMPAIGNS.

THAT IS A SEA CHANGE. THEY LITERALLY KNOW NOTHING.”

[Forgetting “fact checkers” who never check. These folks just stayed in the U.S. and keep re-vomiting what script they get from their “sources” – HUMANOID REFUSE.]

The facts are that the entire data set about dead, wounded, supplies and everything else arrives via insane “Terminological Inexactitude” machine of Hamas and our media works with the Satan’s offspring.
And God made the fact checkers stupid.

By adding a very fine humor piece by Youssef Ibrahim, telling you how the entire MidEast swamp has an American virus-based hatred of the U.S.

I do not wish to tire out the readers with more data assembled and spread by awful wars. I will add “The Arab Narrative” which I composed just to show that I do grasp that language that is used against Jews and Israel. (It does not include blood libels against Jews, the horns I got in the evening, have children’s blood on my Passover Matza, my drive to rule the world, my awful business morals, and so many other fine facts)

If you think that our American press is a bit naïve, you should see what happened to South Africa submitting plain insane resolutions to the U.N. – a deadly seat of Pagliacci (Italian for clowns) – the only thing they do well is filing stupid speeches and eat at expensive restaurants.

SUNNY ARAB

(Youssef Ibrahim, a former Energy Editor for the New York Times from 1981 to 1986, and a Middle East Correspondent for the New York Times from 1986 to 1989.)

Attached is a one-page reprint from Youssef Ibrahim's website titled "Sunny Arab Satire Slaps Anti-American Reflex."

In this wonderful piece, very humorous, he postulates the existence of an anti-American bug, difficult to heal in the MidEast Gordian knot. JS loves this piece, believes that there are no saints to be found and, JS detected recently that change is coming, slow but steady.

Sunny Arab Satire Slaps Anti-America Reflex

Youssef Ibrahim

“Why do they hate us is a question that has bedeviled a myriad of Western analysts since September 2001, but Middle Eastern humor may have the best answer to it yet.

No one is better at poking fun at the dysfunctional obsessions of Arabs than the brilliant Egyptian playwright – Ali Salem – the Arab world’s equivalent to Neil Simon. In a cute essay the other day, he answered the question by showing how Arabs are programmed to oppose anything America says or does.

His funny tale is set at a fictitious press conference held somewhere in the perpetually angry Middle East by a very exasperated Secretary of State Rice who ends the encounter by sighing that, when all is said and done, “The sun shall again rise in the east.”

A crisis immediately ensues.

A talk show host at an Arab network launches an instant survey inviting viewers to respond to the question, “Does the sun indeed rise in the east as the Americans assert? Please email us your answer – yes or no,”

Within minutes, the network reports that 89% have responded with an assertive “no,” and 5% of the viewers said “yes.” Another 2% agreed only “with reservations,” and a few felt the sun never rose in the east or anywhere else.

In the following days, airwaves from Cairo to Riyadh buss with weightier analyses of Ms. Rice’s true intent; American politicians, many notes, never speak of the sun nor the moon nor the weather without ulterior motives. Why now? And why did she not mention this before going on her Middle East tour?

Enterprising reporters chase Arab foreign ministers and senior officials for comment, with most saying only, “The matter is currently under study.”

One very senior Arab official, speaking anonymously, tells the editor of an influential Arab daily that he is “not allowed to expand on Condi’s comments because the matter is indeed grave. No further comments.”

The evening television and radio commentary light up with all-encompassing theories about American conspiracies.

Syrian television notes that “Condi’s sun” refers to a new “crusade” – perhaps an American invasion of Syria. Al-Jazeera speculates that Ms. Rice is hinting at a new American invention that would substitute the power of the sun for “our Arab oil.”

The religious television channels of Saudi Arabia invite noted imams to peer into the matter. One bearded, sandaled, and disheveled-looking blind sage opines that the American infidels are planning to block the sun from ever again rising from the “Muslim East.” With mounting emotion, he calls for jihad against “all American science.”

Popular Arab talk shows take their cameras to question the quintessential man-in-the-street – who is perpetually watched by the quintessential cop-in-the-street. One citizen who looks like a deer caught in headlights, hesitantly answers the question of whether Ms. Rice was right in saying the sun rises in the east. His reply, “Frankly, I work the nightshift so I cannot tell you because I never see the sun.”

Another will only say, “The American official may be right, and maybe she is wrong. Thank you very much, I have to go now.

Egyptian TV takes its cameras to the boisterous Egyptian Parliament, where all representatives from the ruling party, as well as the Muslim Brotherhood opposition, agree on only one thing: America is awful.

One enterprising member of the President Mubarak’s majority National Assembly Party says, “Just because the Americans give us a couple of billion dollars a year does not mean they can tell us where the sun rises.”

A member of the Muslim Brotherhood adds that “whether the sun rise in the east or not is not the concern of the Americans, who can take their money and go to hell. We will always have the sun.

Ali Salem’s opposition to Arab dictators, rotten regimes, and faux militancy has long been a hallmark of his humorous plays and film scripts. It has not earned him friends in high places, but to judge from his immense commercial success, it seems he speaks for a silent majority.

And his explanation for mindless anti-Americanism among Arab anchorman and former Al-Jazeera superstar television presenter, Hafez Al-Mirazi, invited other TV anchor superstars to discuss what makes a program a success on Arab networks. One cut to chase: “Frankly,” he said “the more anti-American, the bigger the audience.”

Sad? Maybe, but no one in the panel disagreed.

THE ARAB NARRATIVE

This one-page text was generated by Jacob Sternberg to prove that PGC understands the “Arab Pain” and / or the “Palestinian Pain.”

The reader may find the video titled: “The Little Town of Bethlehem” interesting. This documentary tries hard to be truthful (a tough try in the Mideast).

In the critique of this video documentary, Jacob Sternberg tries to expose serious flaws in its content.
